Celebrating 21 Years of Inventure

“It is your light that lights the world.” – Rumi

Inventure Academy marked a remarkable milestone as it celebrated 21 years of Inventure, honouring the incredible people whose contributions, commitment and belief have shaped the Inventure journey.

Hosted by Irfan Razack and Nooraine Fazal, the evening was a celebration of gratitude, appreciation and recognition, reflecting on the people and milestones that have made Inventure's journey truly special

The year has been particularly significant, with Inventure achieving several notable milestones. The Whitefield-Sarjapur Campus was recognised as the No. 1 Ivy League Day School in India, while the Yeshwanthpur Campus was ranked No. 1 Emerging High-Potential School in India. The Ramagondanahalli Campus – Inventure Community School was recognised as the No. 1 Government School in Karnataka. Adding to these achievements, Inventure was named among the Top 10 schools in the world for Community Collaboration by T4 Education.

These recognitions reflect Inventure's continued commitment to creating meaningful learning experiences, strengthening communities and empowering learners to make a positive impact.

As Inventure celebrates 21 years, the occasion was not simply a celebration of achievements, but a tribute to the people, partnerships and shared purpose that continue to light the way forward.

21 years of Inventure — a journey made extraordinary by the people who have been a part of it.

Being Round Square: Five Years of Living the IDEALS at Inventure Academy

On 20 and 21 August, Inventure Academy marked an important milestone in its journey as a Round Square school—the Round Square Five-Year Review. More than a review, the two-day visit was an opportunity to celebrate how the Round Square IDEALS and Discoveries have become an integral part of life at Inventure.

The review explored how Internationalism, Democracy, Environmentalism, Adventure, Leadership and Service are lived and experienced across the school community. Rather than focusing on individual lessons or programmes, the visit looked at how these values are embedded in the culture, relationships and everyday practices of the school.

The review team observed that the IDEALS are not simply an additional programme at Inventure, but are deeply woven into the fabric of school life. The school was recognised as an outstanding example of “being Round Square,” with character education embedded in all that we do. The Round Square philosophy complements the goals and curriculum of the school, creating a seamless integration of the IDEALS into students’ learning and experiences.

A strong spirit of “We Care” resonated across the campus. Through interactions with students, faculty and parents, the review team experienced first-hand a community where student leadership, creativity and agency are visible in everyday school life. Students demonstrated a strong value system that is helping them approach future challenges with resilience, compassion, courage and a sense of agency.

The spirit of service and community engagement was particularly evident during the visit to Ramagondanahalli Government School, where the review team gained an insight into Inventure’s long-standing community outreach and its work towards empowering children from local and migrant communities through education. The school’s partnerships with the community and the State government reflect its commitment to building future-ready learners while contributing meaningfully to nation-building.

This commitment extends beyond our immediate community. Inventure's recent initiative to mentor and support teachers in a remote village school in Ladakh is another example of how education can be a powerful force for building stronger communities. These efforts embody the Round Square ideal of Service and reflect Inventure's belief that education can create impact far beyond the boundaries of the school.

Environmental stewardship, too, can be found in the everyday life of the campus. The grand old Peepal tree standing proudly at the front of the school is a powerful symbol of this ethos. Rescued by the school community from being cut down elsewhere in the city and relocated to the campus, the tree has grown into a living symbol of community, care, environmental responsibility and hope.

The review was therefore not simply a look back at the past five years, but an opportunity to look ahead. Inventure's future Round Square priorities include expanding virtual programming through RS Postcards and Study Labs, developing collaborations with schools around the Changemaker Challenge and student agency, encouraging student and teacher cultural exchanges, and exploring opportunities to host a Round Square Conference or Forum.

The school also looks forward to strengthening its connections with the global Round Square community, exploring collaborations focused on leadership and environmentalism, initiating student and teacher exchanges, and creating opportunities for students to learn from and share good practices with peers around the world. A future conference themed around the Changemaker Challenge is also envisioned as an exciting next step.

The Five-Year Review reaffirmed something deeply meaningful about Inventure: it is a school "with a heart." That heart can be seen in the way we care for one another, nurture our environment, listen to student voices, serve our communities and encourage young people to take responsibility for the world around them.

As we move into the next chapter of our Round Square journey, the IDEALS continue to guide us—not as concepts to be taught, but as values to be lived.

Celebrating Teachers' Day Across Inventure

Teachers' Day was celebrated with warmth and enthusiasm across all three Inventure campuses, bringing together students, teachers and the wider school community to honour the educators who inspire, guide and empower our learners.

From thoughtful gestures and creative performances to moments of joy and appreciation, students took the opportunity to acknowledge the dedication and commitment of their teachers.

Across the campuses, the day was filled with smiles, gratitude and memorable moments, celebrating the special bond between teachers and learners.

At Inventure, Teachers' Day is a reminder that education extends far beyond the classroom—and that every teacher has the power to ignite curiosity, nurture confidence and inspire change.

To all our teachers, thank you for being the light that helps our learners find their way.

Inventure Students Shine at Dhanak '26

Creativity took centre stage at Dhanak '26, the 8th edition of the annual inter-school Art and Design Festival hosted by Delhi Public School, Whitefield. With this year's theme, "Around the World," the festival provided students with an exciting platform to explore art, design, storytelling and innovation.

Our talented Inventures enthusiastically participated in the various events, bringing their imagination and artistic skills to the forefront. Through fine arts, craft, design and upcycling, they explored the theme in unique and creative ways, demonstrating originality, attention to detail and a strong sense of artistic expression.

The festival brought together young artists from different schools through a vibrant mix of competitive events, collaborative installations, exhibitions and creative workshops. Our students embraced these opportunities with enthusiasm and confidence, making their mark among the participating schools.

Their creativity and hard work were rewarded with winning performances and well-deserved accolades, making the event a memorable one for Team Inventure. Their achievements are a testament to the importance we place on nurturing creativity, encouraging experimentation and giving learners the freedom to express themselves.

Congratulations to our young artists for letting their creativity travel "Around the World" and bringing home well-deserved recognition!

Tracing Stories Through Art: Grade 5 Learners Visit MAP

As part of their field trip, Grade 5 learners from the Yeshwanthpur Campus visited the Museum of Art & Photography (MAP), Bengaluru, to explore the limited-period exhibition A Moving Line: 1500 Years of Indian Visual Storytelling.

The exhibition offered a fascinating journey through India's rich traditions of visual storytelling, bringing together more than 250 works spanning 1,500 years. From temple carvings and painted scrolls to comics, graphic novels and contemporary forms of visual narratives, the exhibition revealed how stories have evolved across time, places and mediums.

For the learners, the visit was an opportunity to look beyond the classroom and discover how a simple line, image or sequence can communicate ideas, preserve history and bring stories to life. As they moved through the galleries, they observed how different artists and traditions used visual elements to convey characters, emotions, events and cultural experiences.

The field trip was a meaningful blend of art, history, culture and storytelling, encouraging our Grade 5 learners to observe closely, ask questions and see familiar ideas from a new perspective. It was a reminder that learning can happen anywhere—and that sometimes, a single line can lead us into a story spanning centuries.

Celebrating the Ones Who Fill Our Lives with Love ❤️

Grandparents' Day at our Yeshwanthpur campus was a beautiful celebration of love, laughter, cherished memories and intergenerational connections.

The day began with a warm welcome, followed by delightful children's performances and engaging activity stations. Grandparents and children came together for gardening, captured special moments at the photo booth, and enjoyed a fun session of soft Zumba before winding down over snacks and conversations.

As part of the celebrations, we also hosted a beautiful Expressive Art Therapy session with our grandparents, facilitated by Preethi Rajagopalan. Through art and reflection, grandparents revisited cherished childhood memories and explored ways to share these stories, connect more mindfully with their grandchildren, and create new memories together.

It was a truly warm, nostalgic and enriching experience, a celebration of the special bond between grandparents and grandchildren, and the stories, wisdom and love that connect generations. ❤️
